UNION PACIFIC.

Though the Company Did on Its Ground Business Last Year the Earnings Increased.

"Liberal Compromise" Demanded by the Delaware Bloomington Prairie—Gen and Land Sales.

The Old Illinois Dividend and a Quarterly Dividend Declared of Two and Three-Quarters Per Cent.

[Boston Globe, March 3.—Special.]—For the first time in several years the stockholders of the Union Pacific Railroad Company met and voted in this city. The annual meeting was called for 12 o'clock, at the company's office in the Quincy Building, and at that hour the room assigned, seating about 50 or 60 men, was filled to its utmost capacity. The men were chiefly Boston men, and some were mainly in part interested. The object of the visit had prompted the old stranger New York meeting, where only those of Boston stockholders present, and the Boston meeting was a surprise to them. The meeting was, however, called to order, and Dr. J. Evelyn Dexter was chosen Chairman.

On motion of Mr. Charles Francis Adams Jr., Mr. Henry Sutherland was elected Secretary, and the records of the last meeting were read. At this point considerable was made that the proxies had been sent, and other minor formalities in addition to which it was found that a large part had not arrived, and there the business was indefinitely postponed. Some business still might, however, have been done, as considerable votes were cast, as usual, by proxy. Today's vote was but 1,000 shares more than the absolutely necessary to carry the business. The report presented at the meeting is necessarily an incomplete business.

[illegible] The comparative safety here are just quite as the last few months' comparisons of Union Pacific operations show that, namely, showing the net earnings over the Kansas Pacific and Union Pacific both from 1884 to 1885 less than four years, the branch lines as to the Government interest to the Union Pacific, and have been, of course, the main source of the company's profits. The interest on the debt of Union Pacific is increasing year by year, being for the last year $600,000 less than in 1881, the

THERE ARE "SUSPICIONS"

Conclusion of the Coroner's Inquest in the Case of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Wilson.

The Testimony Shows Little More than that Belknapp Was Ugly When He Was Drunk.

It Is Learned That Wilson's Watch Was Found in Lincoln Yesterday by Its Owner.

The coroner's jury in the case of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Wilson met yesterday morning promptly according to adjournment, and after a brief consultation the jury requested a recess to the effect that the case might be examined by some reference, physician or persons. This had been the unanimous request of the jurors, but a few others in the room, relating to the suspicions which have been circulated since Belknapp's death, and the friends of the accused were under the impression that Belknapp's death would not be mentioned in the verdict, and their disappointment was manifested in their demeanor during the examination made on the two persons who appeared in the capacity of the surviving friends. There had been no effort at concealing the suspicions against the young man, and the public were often aware of the fact that certain charges connected the death of Belknapp, and nothing was to the fore of evidence has been brought out during the three days' session.

[illegible]

The proceedings were then closed to all but the jurors, consisting of a consultation lasting [illegible] minutes, at the expiration of which time the jurors returned to the room, and the foreman announced that the jury had agreed upon a verdict. The verdict was then read, and is as follows:

[illegible]

We, the jurors empaneled and sworn to inquire into the cause of the death of James L. Wilson and Mrs. James L. Wilson, find that they came to their death by means of poisoning by strychnine, administered by some person or persons unknown to the jury.

We further find that there is no evidence before us to implicate Belknapp in the matter, and that Belknapp's name should not be mentioned in the verdict, and that suspicions against him are without foundation.

We recommend that the investigation be continued by the police authorities, and that every effort be made to discover the guilty parties.

[illegible]

The verdict was received with applause by the audience, which was promptly suppressed by the coroner, who then announced that the inquest was closed.

[illegible]

Mrs. Wilson's watch was found in Lincoln yesterday by Mr. Wilson, and identified by the jewelry mark on the inside of the case. It was found in the possession of a young man who had purchased it from a pawnbroker, who had received it from a woman who had pawned it. The woman was found and identified the watch as that of Mrs. Wilson, and stated that she had received it from Belknapp. The woman was not called as a witness, as her testimony was not considered necessary.

[illegible]

Mr. Wilson's funeral occurred from the residence of his father-in-law, Mr. Bowen, 1,000 Indiana-av., at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Goodwin officiated. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Bowen and Wilson, brothers of the deceased, and Messrs. Bowen, Wilson, Bowen and Wilson, cousins of the deceased. The interment was at Graceland.

Alleged Discovery by Detective Brown of a Damaging Letter from Byron Crouch.

Examination of Judd Crouch on the Charge of Shooting Brown—The Hearing Adjourned.

The Detective's Story Strengthened by Three Witnesses—Judge Lovingston—Early Misrepresentation.

Ottawa, Ill., March 3.—[Special.]—The [illegible] examination in the Crouch murder case was begun to-day in the presence of a large audience. The first witness called was Detective Brown, who testified substantially as follows: That on the night of the murder he was in charge of the jail, and Byron Crouch was confined in one of the cells. He found a letter from Byron to Judd Crouch addressed to Mrs. Crouch, which he took from the prisoner. He read the letter, which was as follows:

Silas Sampson, the West Side saloon-keeper, was held to the Criminal Court in default of $1,000 bail by Justice Summers, on a charge of keeping a saloon out of hours. Sampson, it is alleged, was in the habit of opening his saloon at 4 o'clock in the morning, instead of 5, the hour at which he is entitled to open it.

Charles Walker, a colored man, was arrested yesterday morning by Officer Cohen, on complaint of Mrs. Lillie Hall, of No. 111 Dearborn street, who charged him with stealing a gold watch and chain from a parlor adjoining Mrs. Hall's residence. Walker was arrested at the house of Mrs. Hall's sister, on Wabash avenue, where he had gone to dinner.

The watch of the lowest passenger to be seen of the Hopewell and Burlington, of St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern, of Mo., was found by a passenger, who was robbed by a highway robber, several miles out, near the bridge of a railroad depot, and also the watch of the lowest and conductor of the car, who had their watches.

LOCAL POLITICS.

Frank Parks, a Ward in Judge Rogers' court, was committed to the jail yesterday morning by the attorney, and at 4 p.m. was let out on bail to appear to-day in court.

A meeting of the South Town Republican Central Committee was to have been held yesterday, but only one of the two members put in appearance and, two members to make, no action was taken. The meeting will be held to-day.

Emil A.E. Dahlgren filed his answer yesterday in the Circuit Court in the case of Dahlgren vs. Dahlgren, in which the plaintiff asks for a divorce. The defendant denies the charges made by the plaintiff, and asks that the bill be dismissed.

Thomas Hanley and Joel Long made affidavit yesterday before Justice Morrison that they were assaulted on the night of the 4th inst. by Charles Phillips, Frank Thompson, James Rogers, and John Edwards, who had been arrested in connection with the affair and sent to the Criminal Court in default of bail. The complainants were bound over to appear at the March term of the Criminal Court.
